

Regulation 6.022 prohibits a university from certifying an incarcerated veteran student for Veterans' Administration (VA) education benefits when the cost of the program is fully funded by the state. Federal regulations do not permit incarcerated veterans to be certified for more than tuition and fees, which would be zero dollars if the student's educational program is fully funded by the state. Certification of veteran students is monitored by the VA and by the state approving agency for veterans' education housed within the Florida Department of Veterans' Affairs. For this reason, the regulation is unnecessary.
